This master degree is a new educational concept designed by the Social Value Creation Lab ALDATUZ, an experimental space inside of the University of the Basque Country.

This experiential learning programme aims to improve your employability in the futures jobs to come and aligning your personal identity and drive to your professional one.

We want to provide you with a safe learning community to explore and develop further your leadership skills, by engaging with multidisciplinary and multilingual teams and motivate each other to take action.

Do you want to become part of a transforming and creative learning environment at the same time that you contribute to generate social and sustainable value? Join the programme! The future is waiting for you.

We will support you through the whole experience, allowing you the space to become a change agent in different professional environments and challenging you to use high doses of creativity.

We want to guide you through processes of innovation. You will be able to customize your own programme addressing the global challenges that motivate you and inspire you to take action.

You will work together with experts in the area of sustainability and different disciplines, creating your own project/device/Master's thesis inspired from your intrinsic motivation and purpose.

You will be leading innovative teams and projects working hand by hand with the professional field, and above all, moving from dream to action!

We provide an innovative learning environment, designed by an interdisciplinary international team.

In this environment you will be able to acquire and develop skills that will enhance your employability for existing jobs, but will also prepare you for the jobs of the future.

Given the interdisciplinary nature of this programme, you will be able to work with different organisations, private companies, government, charities and NPOs.

We also work with international organisations or local ones but with an international culture and orientation. You can also take this journey to create your own business. You will be empowered as a leader for change, who drives and is driven by social innovation throughout ground-breaking leadership.

At the end of this journey, you will be able to:

- Manage projects with interdisciplinary and multicultural teams (think about projects cross-border, for example).
- Combine knowledge with tools and character qualities for sustainability (we work holistic addressing head, heart and hands!).
- Create social value
- Integrate rational and emotional intelligence to take good decisions.
- Drive social innovation using transformational leadership
- Improve your employability and become a purpose driven professional.

WE INVITE YOU TO BREAK THE WALLS OF UNIVERSITY AND LEARN BEYOND CAMPUS TOGETHER WITH DIFFERENT ORGANISATIONS AND DIFFERENT DISCIPLINES. ARE YOU READY FOR THE CHALLENGE?
